Evidence for New World Order or Global Order Connection

- Cases of harassment have been reported globally in North America, South America, Europe, Asia, Oceania, and Africa
- Cases of harassment have been reported in the UK, Canada, South Africa, Jamaica, Austria, South Korea, New Zealand, Saudi Arabia, France, Australia, Mexico, Finland and more.
- It capitalizes on the problem-reaction-solution modus operandi that exaggerates terrorist threats to increase mass surveillance. The ability to globally infect anyone with spyware after they have been fraudulently put on a terrorist list is a direct consequence of mass surveillance.
- The first mention of sonic weapons was by Serge Monast in “NASA’s Project Blue Beam” He warned of a New World Order. The second mention was by the U.S Marine Corps in 1999 during operations that were conducted to practice urban control and herding Americans into camps. Drills such as these were carried out throughout America under Bush’s administration and entrenched marine corps personnel into local law enforcement, heightening militarization.
- Project Megiddo in 1999 declared New World Order Conspiracy theorists as potential terrorists. This project was critical in training and weaponizing local law enforcement, citizen patrol and neighborhood watches against regular citizens. Such training has culminated into this harassment protocol.
